Pets can develop respiratory infections, lung inflammation & asthma when breathing in secondhand smoke.
Cats exposed to secondhand smoke have more than double the risk of feline lymphoma.